

6 STEPS TO DECISION MAKING

for

Dads

Consider the nature of the problem and what you're trying to resolve.
What is the situation you need to address? What is unique about it?

Think of all the possible choices you have.
List every possible choice, including the way-out ones. Be creative - what decisions could be made?

List the logical and realistic choices.

Now that you have a long list of possibilities, break your list down into those that are really unrealistic and those that could be possible.

Evaluate your choices

Think about the possible decisions that you can realistically make. Which most fit the circumstances of the problem and of your life? If only one choice comes up, you may even come up with a clear decision at this point.

Consequences

What are the down sides to your possible choices? Who will be affected, and how? How will your possible choices affect your life, your finances, and your relationships?

Reflection

Think about the decision you're planning to make: what will it feel like to actually make that choice? What will it feel like to not make that choice? Is the decision you're pondering permanent or is it reversible?

Why is all this important?

It's important to have a way to consider choices, think them through, and have a process by which to make well considered decisions. The more important the decision, the more important the decision making process.
